

The E-newsletter

January - February - March 2007

Big Creek's new Atwater yard takes shape

Building a new lumber yard from the ground up is quite an undertaking. But it's also a source of great pride as the new Atwater yard on the site of the old Castle Air Force Base outside of Merced is taking shape.

Boardwalk...the ultimate decking material

CertainTeed's Boardwalk composite decking stands out among many choices of composite materials. It's Class 1 Fire Rating may be the most important reason, but there are many other reasons to choose Boardwalk:

- Longer life than wood
 - No rotting, cracking or splitting
 - Most wood decks need board replacement every few years depending on frequency of care and maintenance
 - Better than recycled plastic lumber and other composite decking products
 - Low maintenance
 - No need to apply paint or stain
 - Easy to clean with deck wash products
 - Excellent weatherability
 - Stands up to the elements
 - Made with PVC, a weatherable polymer
 - High performance
 - Class 1 fire rating
 - Outstanding fastener retention
 - Greater joist spans
- For color choices and more information, visit www.certainteed.com/CertainTeed/Pro/Builder/FenceDeckRail/Prodindex/Deck/Boardwalk/

Boardwalk comes in three colors and is stocked in our Paso Robles yard. We can deliver the material to any Big Creek yard or to your job site.

The 8.5 acre facility will feature a 1+ acre covered load building area, 10,000 sq. ft. store, and 550 feet of state of the art lumber racking. We will have a full line of redwood products, as well as a comprehensive line of Douglas fir, pressure treated, and panels. The yard will cater to the professional contractor, as well as owner builders. Our hard good lines will focus on materials builders need from the time the footing is dug, up to and including the tape and texture on the sheetrock.

The covered load building area is complete and the store and warehouse is going up now. At the current rate of construction, we have tentatively scheduled our grand opening for May 4, 2007.

Also, we are excited to have Jeff Stopper on board as our new outside salesperson. Jeff is a long time Merced County resident who brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the job.